Walking on Glass

Walking on Glass

A Realistic Emotional Oneshot

Christown was an old town, but it was a tired old town when I first knew it. My best friend Shadow and me were always hanging around, doing much of nothing. We would sit around of the porch, throwing rocks, picking bugs, masturbating, and eating worms. Every day was pretty much the same, until one day when a nice negro man raped a white woman, according to the town. His name was Tom Robinson, and he was real nice, but he raped a white woman and my daddy was his lawyer. Our housemaid, Daffy Duck, would always try to get us to do something with our lives, but all we wanted to do was sit on that porch, that is, until Candace Fox came along.

I lost my virginity to Candace fox's 5'9 dick, and I have not regretted it a day in my life. Her friends Kether and Aura first introduced me to the idea of sex, when they dragged me behind the school building and raped me. I loved it. My brother Robby never spent time with me. Honestly, I haven't even seen him in about a year. I became a lesbian, and my first girlfriend was named Mandy. We scissor, and had sex, and had a lot of fun, but she got hooked on drugs. Then, I dated Bamy for a while. She was sweet. Ultimately, I fell in love with my father, Nicloas Pasteur, and we invented a way to clear milk of microorganisms.

Where is your god now?
